

The recording of the Family Genealogy begins in 1600 with Charles the second of England and William Pritchard, being described as, "In the Kings Service". Charles II of England recongonized William Pritchard as being the illegitimate son of Charles the First. Charles the II having no heirs favored William Pritchard and gave him a grant of land at Dolyddselen, North Wales to "hold and to keep in the name of the King of England" and bestowed upon him the title of "Bastard of Tanycastell". This egraved Red Granite monument still stands and descendants still live on the land to "hold and to keep in the name of the King". Our great grandmothers name is on the monument.

Pritchard relinquished the title of " Bastard of Tanycastell" when he was knighted by Charles the II in favor of the title of Sir Pritchard bestowed on him for " Services rendered upon the King of England, Charles II".

From the period of 1600 to 1800 English Genealogy is some what " hazy" as at this time English morals were at their lowest and " bed-hopping" was considered the greatest of sports and I suppose Sir Pritchard was no " pride". An invitation for a "Romp in the Hay" was considered the highest compliment to a woman. Among the woman in court the days conversation consisted of "comparing notes" on the night before.

Sir Pritchard begot William born in 1680 and married Angharad James. Two daughters were born to them, Gwen the eldest and Catherine the youngest.

Catherine wed John William Lloyd

begot

John Jones
(1759-1807)

Gwen Pritchard wed Richard Owen

begot

Elinor Rhisiart
(1762-1846)

Here is were family names are confused as Catherine perhaps took a "toss in the hay" with old man Jones and bore him a son. Gwen like wise with Rhisiart and bore him a daughter. The legal husbands of the woman were responsible for the support of the child but that was fine with him as perhaps some other man was supporting his children. John Jones and Elinor Rhisiart were first cousins when they married. At this time they didn't worry about the morals involved as the Queen Bee of Egypt, Cleopatra was even married to her own brother.
